IN AND AROUND BERCK-SUR-MER AND MONTREUIL-SUR-MER

* Berck-sur-Mer in a few words

Berck-sur-Mer is a bracing encounter with the sea. With seven and a half miles of fine sand, it is a haven of peace. From the Bay of Authie and its belt of preserved sand dunes, to the ever-green countryside, the choice is yours.

* Montreuil-sur-Mer in a few words

The pretty walled town of Montreuil - sur Mer is rich in an eventful history. The cobbled streets, contain a wealth of heritage : the 3 kms of ramparts protect churches, chapels, town-houses and picturesque streets. Little wonder, that this town inspired Victor Hugo to write "Les Miserables"

* What to do ?

Places of interest and attractions :

La Citadelle de Montreuil-sur-Mer

The Citadel of Montreuil sur Mer started to be erected in 1567 on the site of the royal castle of King Philippe Auguste - the two towers at the entrance to the castle still remain. The citadel is representative of seven centuries of military architecture. There is a medieval tower with arrow slits, 19th century blockhouses and finally a reinforced structure from modern times.

Musée de Berck sur Mer

The museum houses an extremely rich collection of paintings, a result of an enthusiastic group of 19th century artists who were inspired by the most important marine stranding in France. The archaeological collections are the only objects in the region that are part of sub-aquatic excavations. They date from the Gallic period to the 17th century including an exceptional series of Merovingian jewellery. *60 Rue de l'impératrice 62600 Berck-sur-Mer. Phone : (0)3 21 84 07 80.
